Committees Named. The committees on credentials and resolutions were named as follows: Credentials—C. E. Leonard, Windham; Credentials—C. E. Leonard, Windham; T. O. Elliot, Pomfret; Edwin B. Ham-mond, Waterford; Lafayette W. Starr, New London; N. H. Hall, Preston. Resolutions—Costello Lippitt, Norwich; D. W. Chester, Groton; F. X. Casavant, Griswold; C. E. Leonard, Windham; Lanc Chamber, Duttern.

Isaac Champeau, Putnam.

The committee on credentials reported the attendance of delegates from the 36 towns of the district to the number of 108, and was accepted.

Edwin W. Higgins Nominated. When nominations were called for, corge A. Hammond of Putnam took the floor and told of Windham county having been represented in congress, as representative of this district, by charles A. Russell, and they deserved it for such a remarkable man. Since his death, however, the present incum-bent has made good. This can be said.

HON. EDWIN W. HIGGINS,

In his seconding speech B. F. Wil-lams of Stonington, after referring to the many men of prominence sent to congress from this district challenged anyone to say that Higgins is behind any of his predecessors. No duties ever developed upon them more strenuous than he has handled. You know what he has done in the way of public buildings and survey siver and

Congressman Higgins Speaks. ongressman Higgins then made the following address, which stirred the gathering, appealing strongly to the delegates, who accorded him another round of applause at its close:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

out this service I have remained conscious of your ideals and have tried to faithfully serve this district, state and nation. It has been my unvarying ambition to represent all of the people of this district, increase its prestige and power, conserve its interests and maintain its effectiveness as one of the 351 districts of the 46 states of the union. It cannot be without gratification and pride that I acknowledge your action today. It stimulates one to greater effort. It forces a renewal of former obligations. It moves me to a strength of the states of the question of the conservation of our natural resources, so forcibly the strength of our patural resources, so forcibly the strength of our common country." former obligations. It moves me to a realization of greater responsibility that I cannot fittingly present in words. Work of Present Administration.

work of Present Administration.

It seems proper at this time that there should be some presentation and review of the work accomplished by the present administration. An appreciation of the wise legislation carefully considered by the last congress and enacted in the interests of the whole paople will command their full approbation. The mere recital of some of the legislative enactments emphasizes. people will command their full approbation. The mere recital of some of the legislative enactments emphasizes the intelligence and industry of this congress and its conception of its duty to the whole people. The republican party offers no apologies for its record of achievements and honest purposes. This congress has passed progressive, intelligent and constructive laws and has kept the piedgas made by the republican party and as the party responsible to the country for legislation has carried to an even higher plane its long record of efficiency and party responsibility. The legislation passed by the present congress includes the railroad rate bill which gives to the shippers greater protection, compels railroads to secure the approval of the interstate commerce commission, to institute proceedings without waiting for the complaint of a shipper, creates a special commerce shipper, creates a special commerce court, grants the commission complete authority over classification and regulations, and brings telegraph and tele. Revision of the Tariff.

This congress met in extra session March 15, 1909, and adjourned Aug. 5 1909. This session was called primarily to meet the pledges of the party responsible for the legislation made to the people in the last national convention. It had been ten years since there was a revision of the tariff. The Ding-law had as promised brought ley law had as promised brought prosperity. The great changes during that time in conditions in the factory, on the farm and in the mine had made it necessary that there should be a it necessary that there should be a readjustment of tariff schedules. Pres-ident Taft declared "that the object of the revision was not to destroy pro-tected industries in this country, but it was to continue to protect them where lower rates offered a sufficient protection to prevent injury by foreign competition." He said "that was the object of the revision as advocated by me, and it certainly was the object of the revision as promised in the repub-lican platform."

Commercial Value of New England Farms.

New England commercially has acquired her position through her manu-factures. Its importance in agriculfactures. Its importance in agriculture has with the development of the farm lands of the west been diminishing until I hope the necessity of more people in this section returning to the soil is becoming apparent. There is hardly a section of the country that has been so little favored by nature as ours in its resources. The commercial value of our New England farms has been lost sight of in our attention to other industrial pursuits. The major part of our people are devoted to callings which do not in the first instance furnish foodstuffs. The New England farmer has the best market in the world at his door, and no other factor contributes so much to the present high cost of living than our failure to make the soil, which is our greatest source of wealth in the country, yield a or weath in the country, yield a greater bounty nearer the point of consumption. I hope the soil survey of Windham county which is now in progress and which I hope to get extended to New London county will disabuse the minds of some people as all right. Because of his experience he can perform the duties of the office better than any other man. One senator has said of him: "He is the first man who has gone into congress and pulled off his coat and gone to work the first year." He seconded the nomination.

In his second, the second of the second of ## Competition.

By the enactment of the last tariff by the enactment of the last faring bill, as with all republican tariff bills, we protect our labor from the competition of the lower paid labor of Europe and Asia. The tariff, while furnishing revenue to maintain the government, protects our people from a dewhat he has done in the way of public buildings, soll survey, rivers and harbors, and a port of entry for New London, the public buildings being in both New London and Windham counties. He never turns a deaf ear to the cause of the old soldier or any cause he has to do with in Washington. He stood valiantly behind the lamented Lilley when that fight was on in congress and has never been found wanting. All predicted his re-election, (Applause.) Congressman Higgins was renominated for the position by acclamation, which met with prolonged applause, and there was another enthusiastic outburst when he was presented by trank G. Letters of Putnam and Henry Reeves of Sprague. from admitting the truth of this charge, nor would I disclaim such an evident compliment, for it is alleged that through its representatives in both branches of congress New England secures a national influence greater than its population, wealth, and importance deserves. The hundreds of different items of the present delegates, who accorded him another round of applause at its close:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

For five years, or in three congresses it has been my high privilege to hold the power of attorney of the people of this district in the greatest legislative body in the world. Throughout this service I have remained conscious of your ideals and have tried.

The question of the conservation of our natural resources, so forcibly brought to the attention of our people by the last administration, has been advanced by this congress under the wise lendership of President Taft. The question of conserving our natural re-
